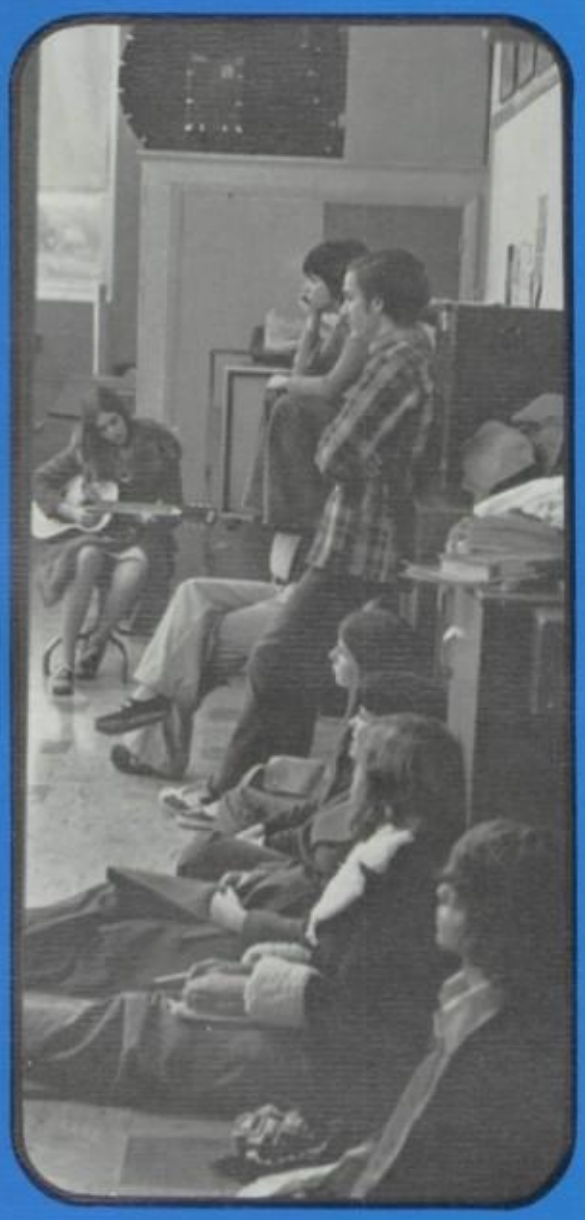
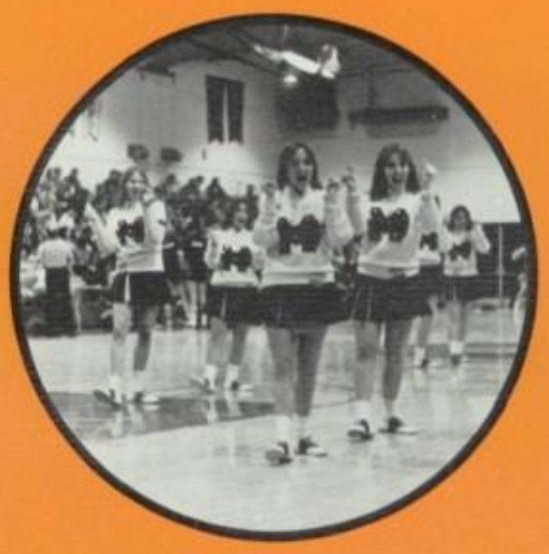
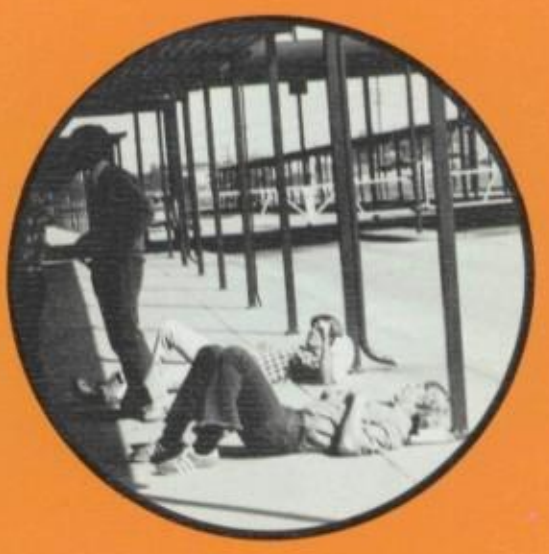
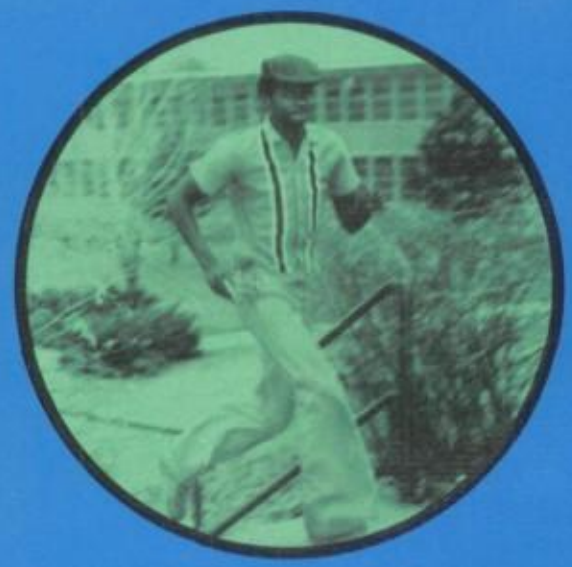
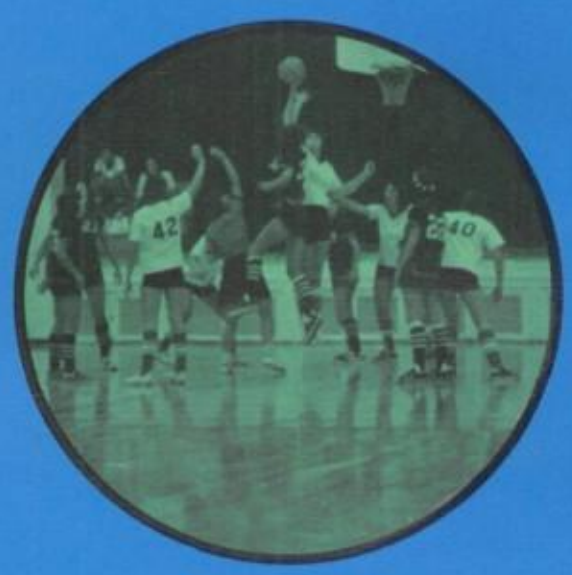
EXIT











One year together for now but not forever.
One year of waiting for the last day of school,
Saying quite often, "I just want to get out of here,"
And meaning it at the time.
But saying on June the third, "I wish I could come back."

One year, one 1976 year of adjustments, celebrations and routines.

R —2, Kinloch, and Berkley forming into one district after years of debate.
A Thanksgiving of snow followed by 70° weather in December.
Realizing that stupid people do burn trees and flood hallways.
Having the day off on Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday for the first time.
Giving time and talents for the senior gift.
No more signing up for quarter courses or getting quarter credits.

Celebrating America's 200th birthday with the Bicentennial flag raising.
Getting together for the relief of the week;

the Saturday night parties

Finally getting a report card without any mistakes.

Learning how to use the 20 minutes of advisory.
Being fogged out of the bathrooms when cold weather comes.
Putting off homework until late at night and oversleeping the next morning.
Meeting friends in the triangle and talking too long.
Spending time in the smoking areas and coming in tardy.
Monotonous sounds of bells ringing continuously.
Five minutes of talking waiting for the teacher to finish taking attendance.

One year together for now but not forever.
One year of waiting for the last day of school,
Saying quite often, "I just want to get out of here,
And meaning it at the time.

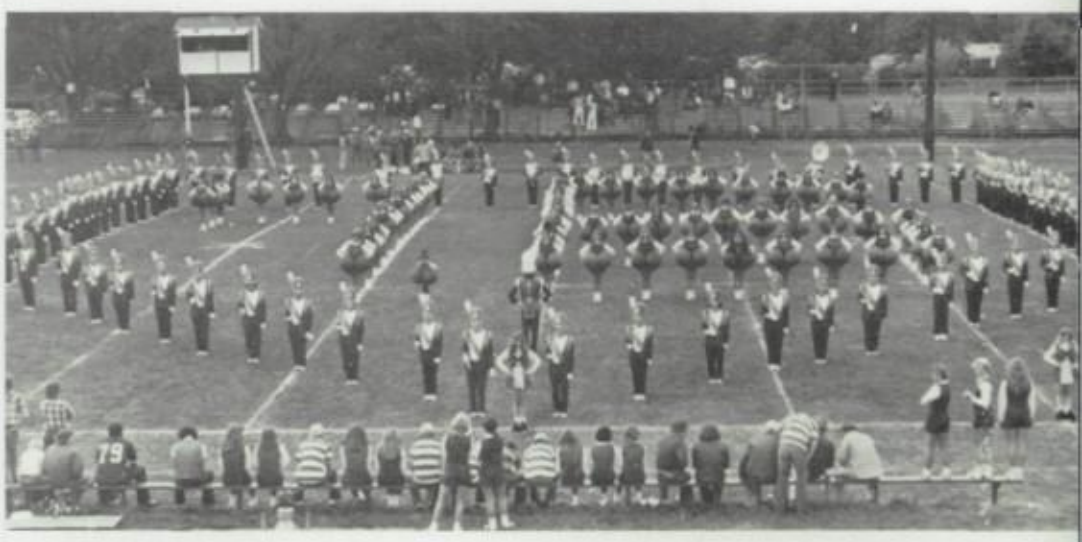
MC CLUER CELEBRATES



McCluer's Bicentennial

1776-1976. The 200th birthday of America. McCluer is participating in the celebration by working on various activities and projects. Near the beginning of the year, McCluer held the Bicentennial Flag Raising, with Mike Wakeland as master of ceremonies. The needle art classes worked on an embroidered eagle. Jim Downey, a Senior, has been writing Broadside, the McCluer Bicentennial paper. Many activities at McCluer revolved around the Bicentennial. The Spring Play, for instance, was A Salute To the American Theatre which was an illustrated review of the American theatre from the landing of the Pilgrims to the present day. The Social Studies department worked on the Kiosk, a large spool-like structure which contained pictures of Bicentennial events all over the country. In the music department, a Bicentennial concert was presented which contained American songs. The librarian in the Bicentennial costume, the M-3 Lobby Bi-State Bulletin Board, and the other displays around McCluer are making 1976 a year to remember.

Special Events

Special Events are events that have special meaning for certain people.

These events are "special" because they might have been something that involved alot of time and effort and are at last completed, or maybe an important goal is finally achieved. It could possibly be that an exciting experience has occured. For the people who put forth the effort or achieved the goal or had the exciting experience it is naturally important thus making it "special" for them.

Everyone in his or her daily life has "special events" but usually the only one who recognizes it as being special is the person involved, and it is always disappointing to be unable to completely share an important event with someone.

The reason for caring about other people's "special events" is pure but honest consideration. Consideration of how the person will react to actually being able to share an important happening and consideration of how it would feel being able to share a special event with someone else.

This section of the Yearbook is put in to show our consideration of the people on this school who are involved. We regret that we can not recognize everyone's "special events".

Long Wait For Saturday In The Park

After a change in the date, a few changes in the band, and countless changes in the theme, things were set for Homecoming.

November 15th turned out to be a beautiful day starting with a colorful parade. The winning float was created by Senior Committee. Following the parade was the last football game of the season, against St. Charles. We were victorious defeating the Pirates 14-6.

The highlight of Homecoming was the dance which was held in the M-4 gym. The theme of the dance was "Saturaday in the Park", and the band was Bob Kuban's "Everyday People". At the dance Mary Lunatto was crowned queen by retiring queen Molly Pope. All in all the evening was very successful and memorable.

Hansel and Gretel

"Hansel and Gretel" is not a traditional high school production. It is one that is steered away from high school students and guided towards children, little kids who still believe in witches and the Sandman. With this in mind, one can determine that this year's fall play was successful. The brothers and sisters of McCluer students received the play with enthusiasm and were glued to their seats from the opening line to when Witch Wicked was popped into the oven.

From a different point of view, the play was not so successful because it did not attract the attendance of a high school audience. Basically, the only students that attended the play were those who brought younger children.

Paul Brown and Carolyn Harrison did an excellent job of bringing the two storybook characters of Hansel and Gretel to life.

Paul did a fine job of acting as he portrayed a mature little boy, protecting his sister from their Stepmother and the evil witch.

Carolyn displayed her talents by adding to the shy and innocent role of Gretel and singing a soft duet.

The small children in the audience were amazed by the gruesome appearance of Witch Wicked, portrayed by Toni Smith. Toni kept the character alive by cackling her lines effectively. It seemed that any moment she would pull a bat out of her pointed black hat.

Greedy, lazy Fritz played by Dave Wood, the clumsiness of Helga, played by Charlotte Cochran and the childishness of Catherine, played by Kathy Moffitt, spread humor throughout the fairy tale.

Kathy Kohler's fine portrayal of white cat added a nice touch to the fantasy.

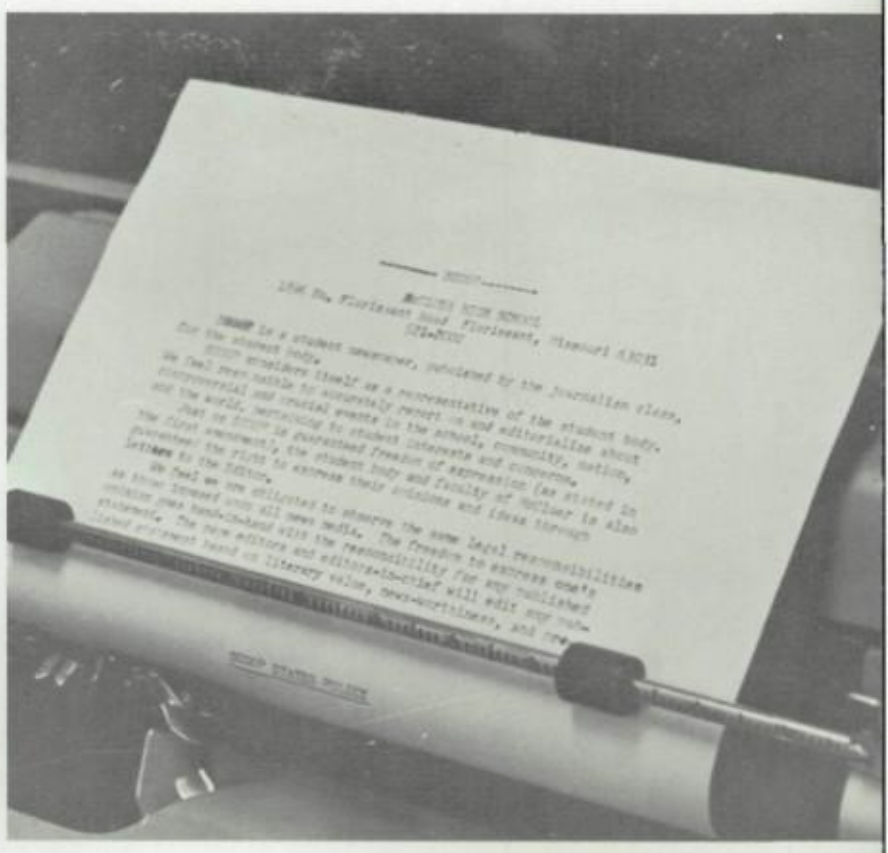
Scoop Expresses Opinion



Censorship Issue Halts Paper

An interim agreement under which Mr. Bredenkamp, principal, can see and react to, but not control, articles before they are published has temporarily resolved a conflict which has delayed publication of SCOOP for two weeks.

Mr. Bredenkamp had complained, "I can't know what's going in and I have to react to it once it's published. So I have no say so, but I'm held accountable. If I'm to be held accountable, I think I deserve some feed-in."

The staff of the paper held that "say so" over what would or would not be published lay with them, defining their publication as "a student newspaper with an obligation to accurately report situations."

Parents wanted the administration to explain its position and at the parents' request a meeting was set for February 9 at 5:00 p.m. with Henry Prokop, Assistant Superintendent for Secondary Education, John Wright, Assistant Superintendent for Community Relations, and Mr. Bredenkamp. About 40 parents and community members showed up at the meeting.

Mr. Prokop said at the meeting, "The general public wants control by the administration and they want all kinds of glowing reports about how good everything is."

But Mr. Joseph Bartylek, a parent at the meeting, expressed the opinion of the majority of parents and community present when he said, "I don't think the community is so sensitive that we have to look at everything through rose colored glasses."

The meeting lasted about two hours. By the end, most community members and parents had reached a consensus that SCOOP should be a student paper run by students.

At a later meeting with the newspaper staff, Mr. Prokop had acknowledged, "I was the one that started the thing going February 2. That doesn't mean I wasn't getting pressure, but I was the one who started it."

Mrs. Maxwell, assistant principal, was the first to inform the newspaper staff of the new administration approach to the paper. Although the guidelines are no longer in operation, some of the ones given by Mrs. Maxwell at the time were:

"The school paper is considered to be a form of communication to the community from the school and representing the district in a positive way.

"Those things that are considered controversial, that will in a sense incite controversy must be eliminated.

SCOOP should be a paper that presents as positive a point of view about McCluer as you possibly can."

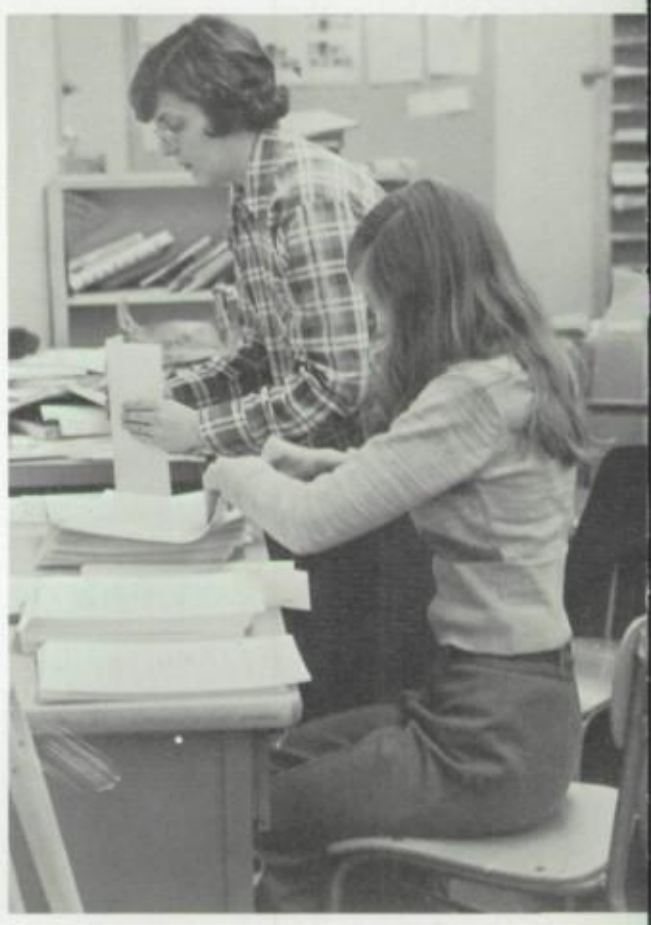
On February 5 the staff of SCOOP drew up a statement rejecting the administration guidelines and prepared to make its position public.

In this statement SCOOP said, "It is our objective to maintain our constructive and honest approach to issues and events and to encourage other high school papers to do likewise. We therefore cannot, in all good conscience, accept the guidelines imposed by the school and district administrators."

Pressed by parents and community members at the February 9 meeting with why the administration had taken its initial action, Mr. Prokop said, "The purpose of this is to give the administration a chance to see the paper before it's published." But at that meeting he refused to say whether or not censorship would be imposed if the students tried to put out a paper.

The next morning Mr. Prokop and Mr. Wright met with the staff. It had been decided that Mr. Bredenkamp would see articles before publication, but (in Mr. Prokop's words) "The only control he would have is the pressure of his statements."

According to Mr. Wright, "Until we get some guidelines that you, the central office on January and the Board of Education understand, we're going to let you go ahead and publish a paper according to your guidelines."



Caps And Gowns

Measurements For The Big Day

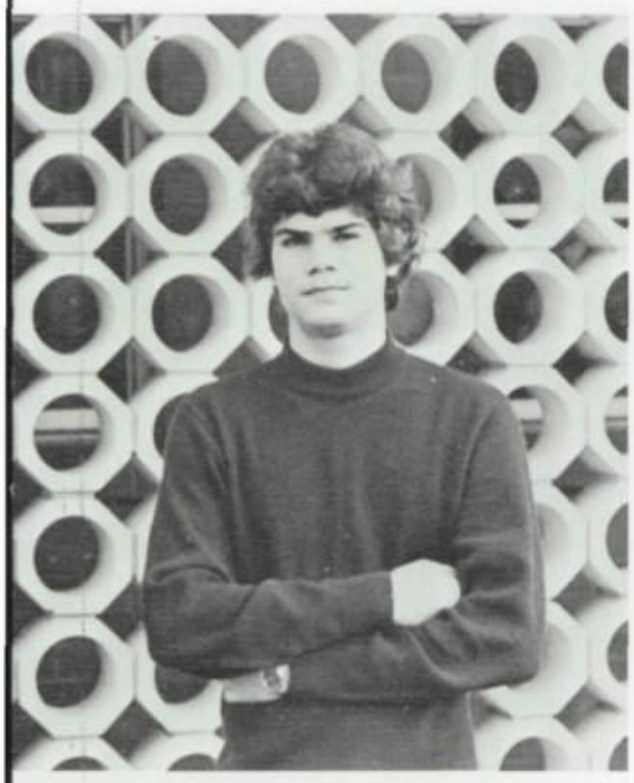
"No! That's crazy. I can't be 5'3". I was 5'3¾" yesterday, it's impossible to shrink, isn't it?"

Can you guess what's going on? It's cap and gown time, another small reminder to many that graduation is approaching.

Foreign Exchange Students

Tom Surlien

Tom Surlien is a tall, brown-haired, blue eyed, eighteen year old Senior. He comes to McCluer as a foreign exchange student from Asker, Norway. He has two brothers, one older and one younger who also is an exchange student in Ohio. Tom is described as intelligent, care free, and a lover of nature. His favorite sports are skiing and soccer. He was on McCluers soccer team this year. Tom likes St. Louis but misses the beautiful scenery of Norway with its mountains, and his friends. He is deeply concerned with the environment and the future in general.



Paulo Adedato

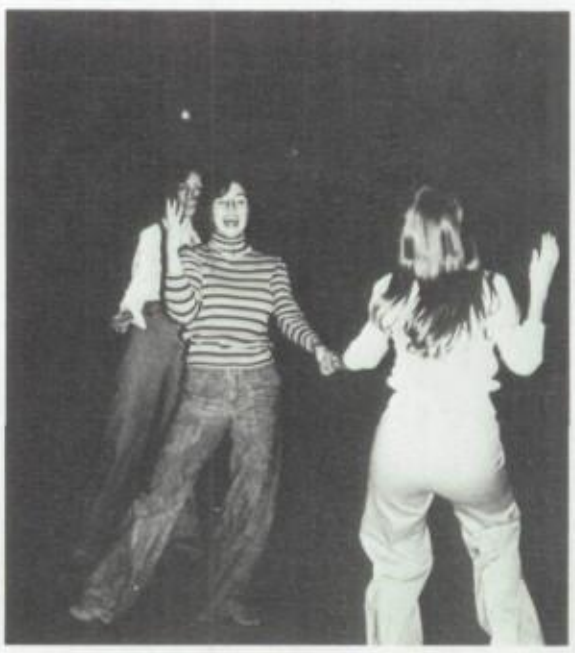
Walking down the hall and glancing around most students will come across a dark haired, dark eyed guy with a gigantic smile that is carried with him everywhere he goes. He is a 16 year old foreign exchange student, Paulo Adedato. His home is in Brazil. Paulo's family is quite familar with this school; his two older brothers were exchange students at McCluer in 1972 and 1975. His sister plans to attend McCluer in 1978. Paulo is still adjusting to the backward way at McCluer. At school in Brazil things are alot different than they are at McCluer. For instance, the students stay in the rooms and the teachers change classes.

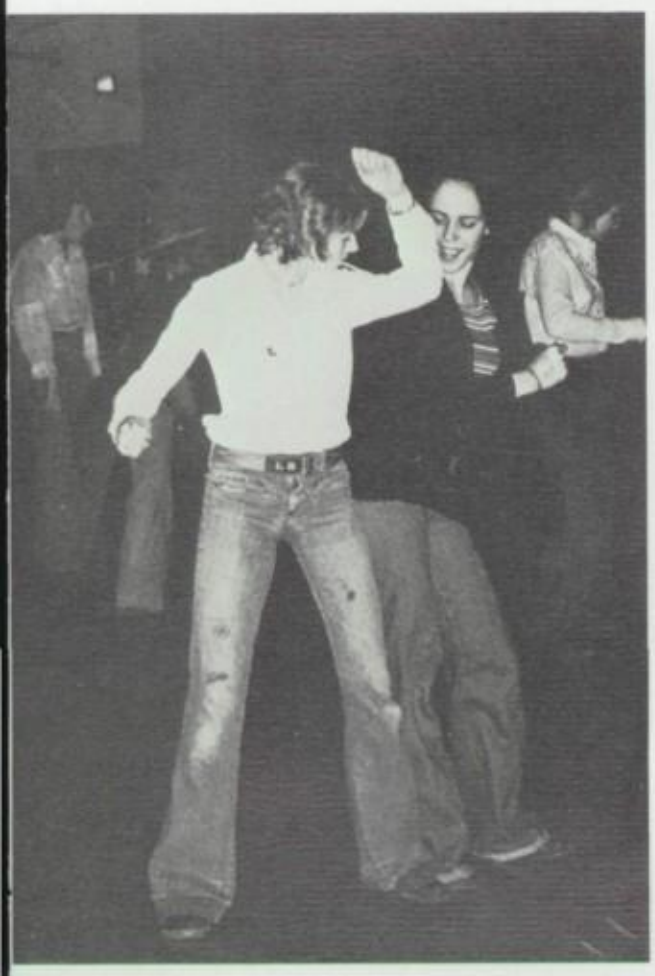
Paulo finds most of the people at McCluer friendly but because of the language barrier he depends mostly on peoples looks and their response to his smile.

When asked about his favorite things, Paulo favors soccer and bowling where sports are concerned. He is also a rock concert fan with his favorite group being "YES".

Paulo thinks living in St. Louis is an experience but is sure he will like it the longer he's here.

Half-Way Dance





Halfway Dance Is A Success

"Hey man, whose pants are on the wall?" "Those aren't pants man, that's a poster." "A Half-Way Dance." "What the #%$¢$?# is a Half-Way Dance?" Well, it is a Dance sponsored by the Deca Club, to celebrate the end of half a year of school. For some of our Seniors it was their last Dance as a McCluer High School student. For everyone who attended, it was a blast, but then a few drinks and a great band, "The Pockets", always makes for a good time.

A Salute To The American Theatre

Bicentennial Revue

"A Salute to the American Theatre" was a new and unique theatrical experience for the student body and the actors and actresses involved. This was the first time at McCluer that a teacher had written part of the play and directed it also. Snow caused cancelation of rehearsals and a slow start. Six weeks was a short time in which to put a show together. Time was spent in rehearsals Sunday through Thursday, constant work on memorizing lines, learning song melodies and lyrics, collecting props, trying on costumes, and finally setting the lights and having dress rehearsals. The beautiful costumes seemed as though they walked right out of the movies and onto the M-1 stage. The mood of the scenes changed from drama to comedy as the play progressed. The actors, as if speaking to the audience, created a relaxed atmosphere to the audience throughout the three performances of "A Salute to the American Theatre".

McCluer Students Give Blood

Students Face The Big Bloody Question

"To give blood or not to give blood, that is the question. To be purely selfish and keep my blood or to part with this precious blood and take the chance of passing out and missing Physics and Shorthand, and dear ol' Chemistry. Devout as I am to these three wonderful subjects, I can't desert my needy countrymen.

And so it was, 170 students flooded into the M-5 gym to give blood because they felt the need to help others. Also because they received free cookies, coffee, milk, or orange juice. The Bloodmobile Program was sponsored by Senior Committee. McCluer students gave 140 pints of blood. It was a big increase over the previous year, enough to encourage the bloodmobile to return later in the year.

Cross Country Runs-On

With practice starting in late August, and ending in early November, the members of the Cross Country team had their ups-and-downs. The guys had a rough and rugged schedule with every other meet an invitational, keeping the runners on their toes. At practice sessions, runners were required to run eight to ten miles, plus warm-up exercises. Two starters out of eleven returned to compose a team of seventeen.

Varsity Football Hits 500

The 1975 season included league and personal victories such as McCluer North and Pattonville. It also included some humiliating losses, like Riverview and Hazelwoods Central and West.

For the players it was a season of Wednesday night defensive meetings, and scrimmages until after dark.

Injuries to key players plagues the Comets. Defensive coach, Mike Mueller, explained that the key people get hurt because, "You are only important to this team when you are willing to give of yourself for that guy next to you." Throughout this season this attitude was manifested through the players actions.

Soccer Becomes Fall Sport

Team Strives For 100th Win

The McCluer Soccer Comets of 1975 had a tough assignment, to match what last year's team had done. They had to be an area power and a state contender. The reason it would be particularly hard was that only three starters were returning from last year's team.

This year's team went into every game giving all they had, but they were inexperienced. Still this inexperience didn't keep them from playing a tough game because the Comets only lost one game by more than one goal.

The team was a spoiler to the rest of the league in that they did not contend, but they certainly had a say in what happened.

One of the goals of the seniors was to give Coach Signaigo his one hundreth victory as a varsity coach, but they didn't make it. To quote one of the seniors, "I wish we could have done it for him."

Girl's Tennis had quite a good season which began in August and ended in late October. Overall the team came out with a 4-4-2 record taking second in the district and sending one girl to state. Before the two hour practice session began the girls had to do calisthenics which were quite difficult until everyone got used to them.

Comets: I-270 Champs

The 1975-76 McCluer Comets were a surprise to almost everybody — except themselves. All anybody ever heard about the team was: "They lost too many key players", "They don't have any height", and "I just don't think they have the talent." But there was one thing that most people overlooked; the coach believed in them, and they believed in themselves. They proved themselves by putting together an outstanding season, and by doing things on the court that nobody thought they would ever do.

The Players:

Senior Matt Holliday — known as the "Doc" for his ability to pull out the close ones. His ability and aggressive play typified the Comets.

Junior Deron Thomas — the "Bones" could score points from all over and proved that he was a player's player.

Senior Jeff Lindsey — the "tooter" was off and on in the beginning, but after a 40 point game, he showed his worth and desire.

Senior Phil Mathis — the center (the position that the Comets weren't supposed to have). At only 6'3", Mathis had it hard, but he got going when the going got tough.

Senior Willie Jones — the shortest forward, at 6', he worked to help the team. Willie was quick and could think fast . . . always ready for action.

Being A Comette Means Work

What does it mean to be a Comette? It means wanting to practice even over weekends and holidays. It means running that extra lap even after the coach says you can quit. It means spending hours doing skill drills when you d rather scrimage. It means enduring the excruciating pains in your knee because you don't want to look on from the bench. It means alot of sweat, time, energy, and tears whether you win or lose.

Being a Comette means your toughest opponent is yourself. It means you struggle with confidence and spirit more than with the ball. It is learning what it means to work as a team and searching for interpersonal relationships. It means every game is a challenge and you never win or lose till the final buzzer sounds.

Being a Comette means you good naturedly swallow chauvinistic teasing. It means because of Title IX you were finally allowed to enter state competition this year. It means playing in the M-1 gym without a score board while the boys practice in M-4.

Only a Comette can wear her T-shirt in the winter and not be cold. Only a Comette Views forty spectators as an enthusiastic crowd. Only a Comette finds thirty-two minutes of exhausting play the most invigorating challenge at McCluer.

Team In Top Ten

With practice starting in November, the wrestling team groans and moans everyday from 3:00 until Coach Mastrioanni is tired (which may just be sometime around 7:00). This years team must have groaned and moaned very well because they have come from the cellar in area press rankings to one of the top ten teams in the metro St. Louis area. Assisted by Coach-Trainer, Sam Hastings, Head coach Steve Mastrioanni has brought prestige and honor to McCluer Wrestling once again.

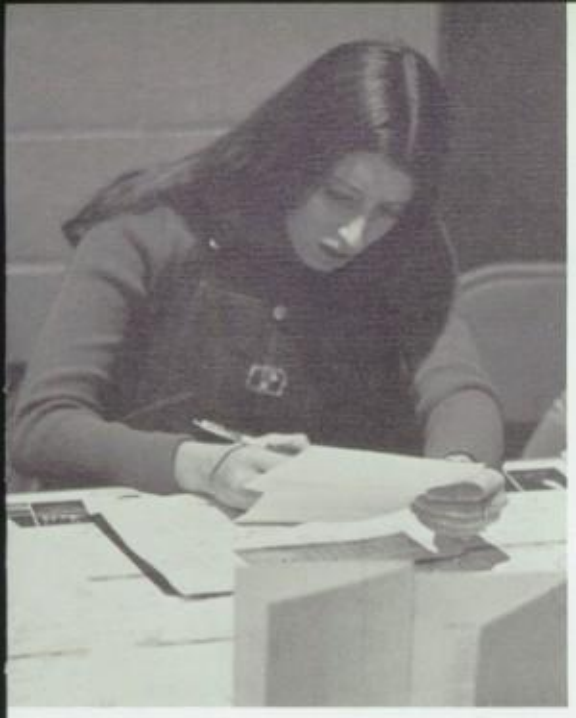
Girl's Gymnastics: A Growing Sport



Girl's Gymnastics Gains Confidence

Belonging to a gymnastics team is different from belonging to most sports teams.

When the time comes, the competitor stands alone. There are no team mates to help her with the difficult moves; they can only stand by to wait and watch, silently coaching her while assorted thoughts run through her mind.

"You really worry about your appearance and what the judges and spectators are thinking, "says Cindy Pavlovits, Senior division floor exercise competitor. "You also worry alot about smiling."

Smiling, though it sounds like a very small matter, is really important. Judges judge not only the girl's skill and performance of the routine but also her appearance.

Nervousness, besides appearance, is another thing the girl's must worry about. Ms. Sylvia Stancick, the girl's coach, says this can eventually be overcome, though.

"Experience is the best way," she says. "At our first meet (an away meet), I had girls in their first year of competition crying because the equipment was different. It's something that's common and with more meets, the girls get less nervous. It's something they have to work out themselves."

Something that is caused by nervousness is forgetfulness.

"I worry about doing it right," laughs Sue Ahorn, another Senior division floor exercise competitor, "Little mistakes can ruin you and can make a difference between a blue ribbon (first place) and a red ribbon (second place)."

Kimn Kohrman, a junior, agrees saying "I feel like 50 hours of practice has gone to waste. You feel like you've let yourself and your team mates down."

Some, like Marsha Hodges, just get mad and work harder.

All the girl's work hard, but especially after a bad meet. They understand that's the only way to improve and it seems to be paying off.

"I feel good for the girls when they win," says Ms. Stancick and all the girls feel happy about it also. Sue feels the same though, win or lose.

"I feel like eating!" she laughs.

Working with Sue and Cindy on floor exercise in senior division is Karen Taylor. In junior division, Marsha and Kimn work with Sue Politte and Debbie Wessel, who both work on uneven parallel bars.

Comets Try For Third Consecutive Year

One of the biggest events of the 1975-1976 school year was the McCluer Basketball Comets winning the quarterfinals and being able to compete for the state basketball title for the third consecutive year. Pep Club held a pep assembly the day the team departed. Most of the students began thei journey to Columbia on Friday afternoon but many did not know where they would be spending the night.

The Comets lost the first game at Columbia and had to take a fourth place. The loss, though, did not stop the students from partying back at their hotels. As usual, the consumption of liquor was great, and so were the hangovers on Monday.

To the seniors, going to state had become a yearly event. But to the sophomores, this was a new experience which added a lot to their few memories of McCluer.

Columbia: basketball, winning, losing, excitement, partying, and good old high school fun.

Mr. Winscott says "Get involved", sell the pep hats, sell the programs. Bake some cookies. Manage the store. Call a meeting. Think of another idea for the float. Arrange an assembly. Sell the pep hats and more . . . Didn't anyone tell Mr. Winscott we really tied for third place with out float? And we did call a meeting of our involved people, but there was no-one there to vote. Even though NHS meetings are a lot of fun, why can't we getmore members and the vice-president to come? Yes, Mr. Winscott is late again and what do you think of that? He's probably still at the football game, trying to peddle pep hats. I think for all our assemblies we should get Nancy Whitener's "put it together band," They only require one night rehearsals and only make one night stands. And our president, Debbie Ragland, is really a fine speaker, when she stands at the podium, you can't see her knees shake from the bleachers. Who's balancing the books at the school store? "Really, oh really," was Heidi Beaver's reply, "To me all the nickels look the same size." Committee time, we need a chairman, co-chairman and members. All volunteers make yourself plain. "Ms. President, Ms. President, this half of the room politely abstains." All in all, we all are so proud. That one little pin, "removeth all doubt." And maybe someday, through all of our fun we'll find our school has been bettered by something we've done.

"Is Mike here yet?"
"I think he's sick."
"Let's order 'The Sting'"
"Who's going to speak at the flag raising?"
"Who wants to volunteer for Slave Day?"
"I want a rollie-pollie chair!"
"I vote no!"
"We're not voting yet!"

So goes a typical hour in Student Council. But in the end, decisions are made. And many successes have resulted, for instances the movies, Bicentennial Flag raising, Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus contest, and one of the best Who's Who we've ever had. And last but not least, trash cans in the M-4 smoking area.

Crest — Lot's Of Fun If You're Crazy

"Hey Maggi, I want a red cover!" "Shut-up Keith! It's going to be blue!" "Tracy, how is the teacher section coming along? . . . that bad huh?" "Anita and Peggy, will you quit doing Po-Pon routines, you're destracting me!" "Tell Bob and Earl I want to get in on the next hand." "Joanne! Joanne! You're going to have to re-do this layout for me. Each time I start from the outside and work to the inside, I end up with alot of white space!" "Ask Jan to type this page over again, there are a few mistakes." "Tell Marcia she's going to have to fit this copy over again, it's seven picas off!" "Go get Keith, Dean, Kathy, Mike, and Steve! Tell them to re-print their pictures!" "But Karen, have you forgotten? Today is Friday, and tonight is the deadline!" "Yes I know, but did you look at the pictures we have now? They're all grey and scratched!" "Hey, Lori just typed up a page of Seniors without any mistakes!" "If she's that good, make her copy editor next year!" "Where's Donna?" "She had to work tonight." "Ask Roger how big the circles were for his pages, I think I just lost them!" "Does Dave have Clubs and Committees done?" "Are you kidding? He still has 29 pages more to finish!" "Tell Terry she can't leave! It's only 3 am and she has to stay till 6 am!" "Ask Cindy to re-crop these pictures please. She did a scalp job on a few of the heads!" "Somebody better start blowing taps! Ms. Lacks will be here soon and when she sees how much more we have to do tonight, she'll bring out her shovel and plant us all-about six feet under!"

So goes another deadline for the yearbook, five all together. All of them aren't like this, sometimes they're even worse!

Scoop

Many new faces are on the SCOOP staff this year. Although, the people are different, the dialogues haven't changed.

Tim is still being teased about his hair. (It's said that he gets all of his journalistic talent from it). Ann whispers that she knows a secret about the music dept. but won't say a word unless it's "off the record." Kathy and Tina (nicknamed the siamese twins) are doing each others work. Jeanne is begging Dave for Girls' Sports coverage. Karen is working on another investigative article. Dave is searching for more sports pictures. Keith is saying,"You don't understand. I do all of my woek outside of class!" Greg is asking why he has to do the articles nobody else wants. Jeanne is putting the finishing touches on another cartoon. Mike isn't in class. (It's rumored that he's hiding in the Student Council room). Keith and Pam are dividing up the photo assignments. Two for you, one for me, two for you, one for me ..... Melinda is describing another one of her editorial cartoon ideas, while Debbie mumbles, "I quit after the next paper" and goes back to her needlepoint. Ms. Lacks says "I'd like to go on the record saying ....."

The atmosphere changes, though, the day the paper comes out. We wallpaper the room with SCOOPs and stand back and gaze in awe and exclaim that it's the best paper of all.

This past summer the Varsity Cheerleaders practiced twice a week and attended NCA Cheerleading Camp in Springfield, Missouri at Southwest Missouri State University. While at camp they won four blue ribbons during competition and three spirit sticks. The third night they were allowed to keep a spirit stick as one of the highest awards given. In October, they conducted a clinic at Bermuda Elementary School and judged at their cheerleading tryouts. In order to raise money they had car washes and bake sales. The money went toward camp, uniforms and the float they entered in the Homecoming Parade. They did their best to promote school spirit and had a lot of fun.

The purpose of the Pep Club is to promote good sportsmanship, school spirit, and support all athletic events of McCluer High School. We lan and prepare all activities for Homecoming, which is our big event of the year. To raise money, Pep Club members have bake sales, egg begs, car washes, etc. We decorate the M-3 Lobby with red and blue streamers and banners to recognize athletic events played at hom throughout the year. After the fun, excitment, and hard work of Homecoming, Pep Club has as its goal to remain an active group for the remainder of the year continuing their work on raising funds, service projects, developing a new Constitutio, and promote school spirit at Winter/Spring Athletic events.

A Flair For Fashion

Fashions And Moods

"Hey, what color's your mood ring now?" "It's purple, I think that means I'm on fire." "I see you got some new toe socks, pretty wild." "Yeah, seventeen different colors, they glow in the dark, and there's room for six toes." "And how do you like my new jeans, I just bought 'em." "They've been pre-washed and pre-worn by six people."

These are topics commonly discussed throughout a day at McCluer High School. Fashions play an important part in most everyone's life. People's personalities are revealed by the way they dress.

Food for thought: Do you dress like your peers do to be accepted or because it is what you really feel comfortable in?

Everything you always wanted to know about McClue

McCluer Goes

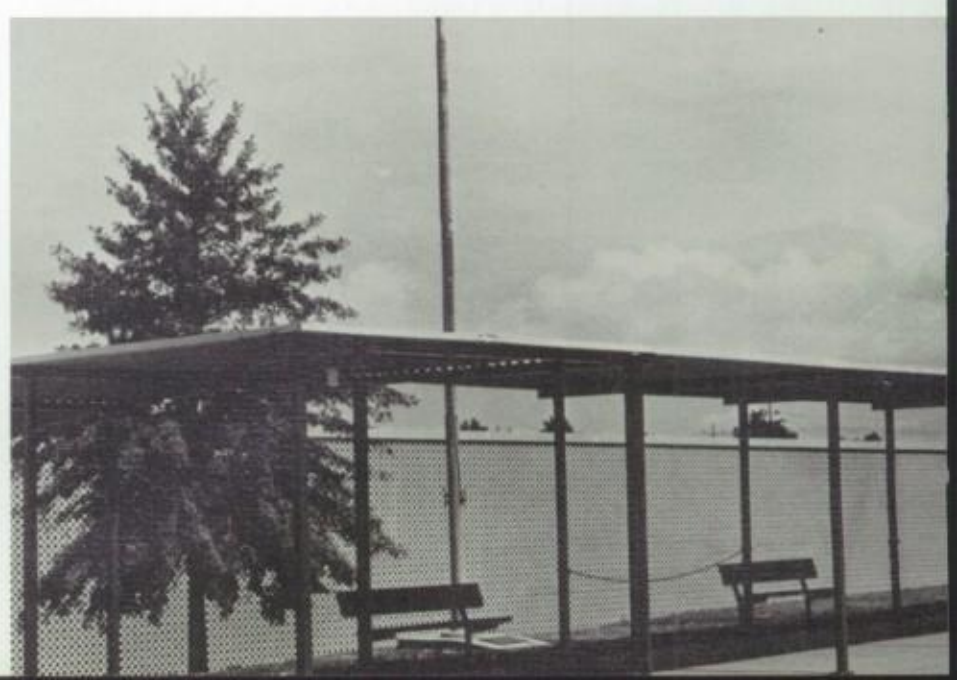
In the past nine months as members of the Crest staff, we decided you, as a student, would like to express your point of view. So, we took surveys, made estimates, and averaged percentages on everyday questions.

Who are the worst drivers in school?

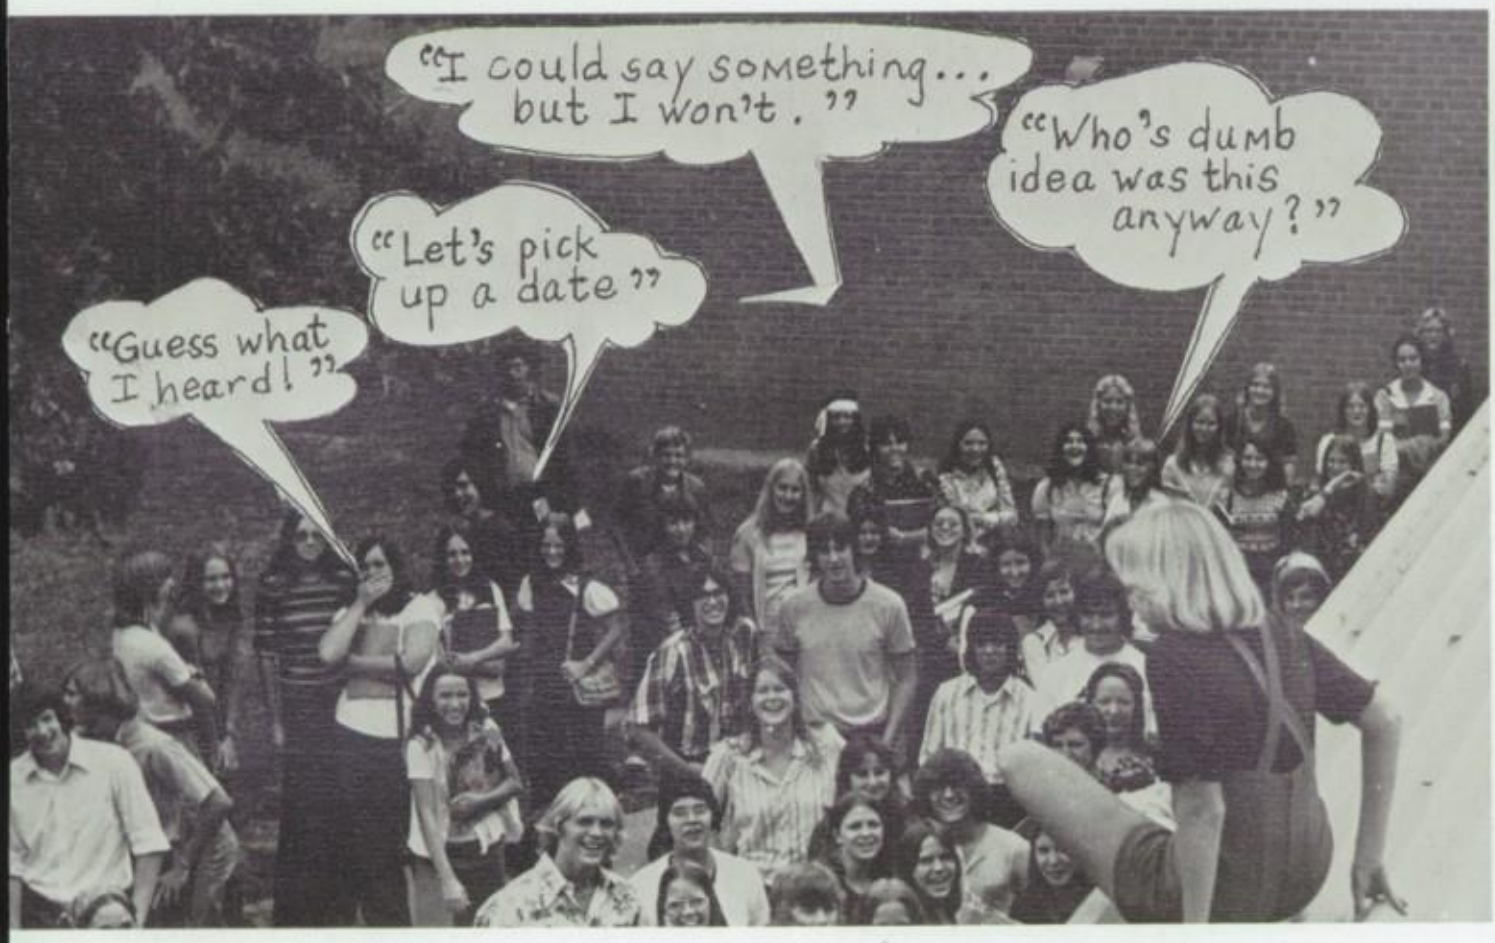
How do you rate the cafteria food?

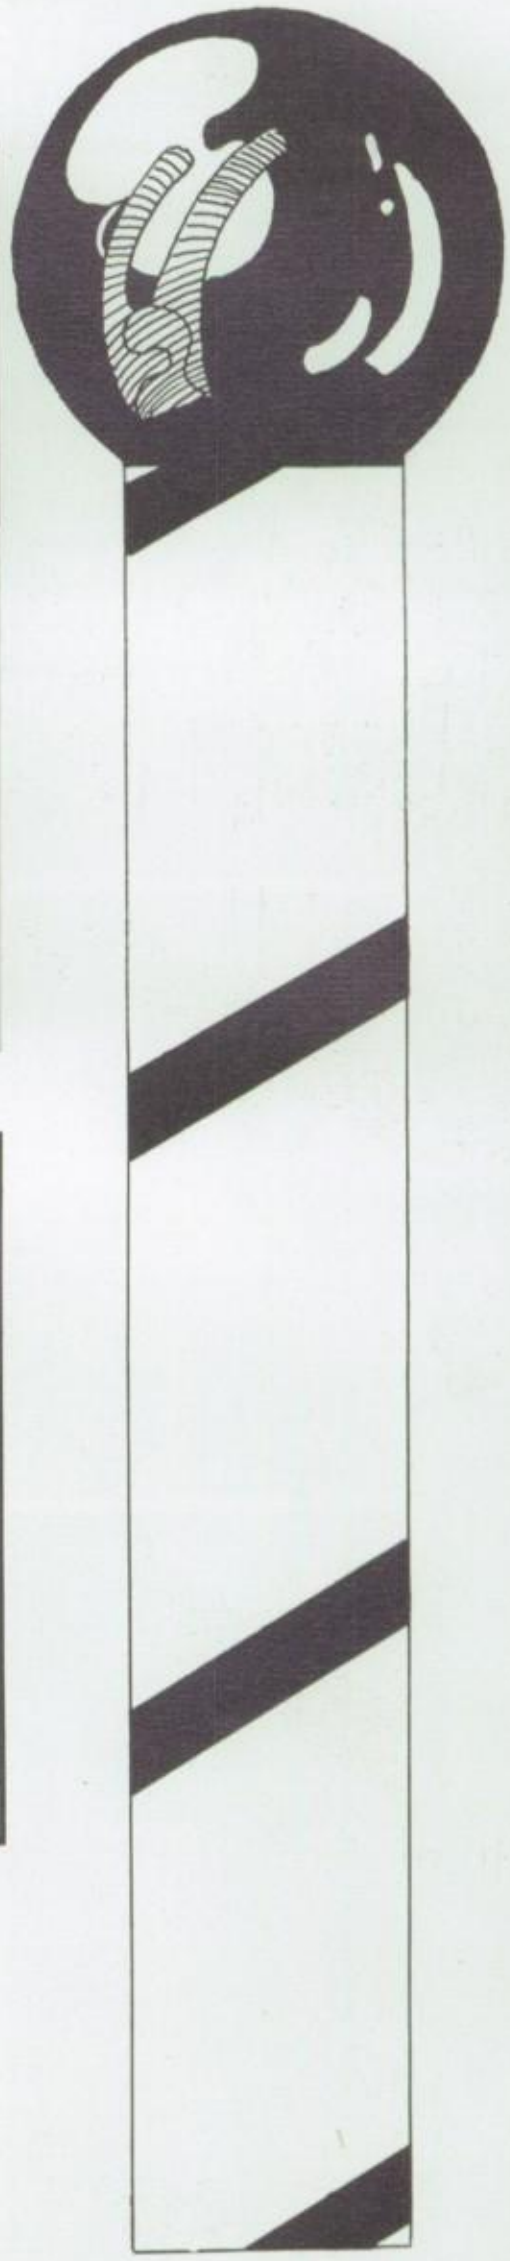
What's for lunch?

How does a teacher feel at 2:36

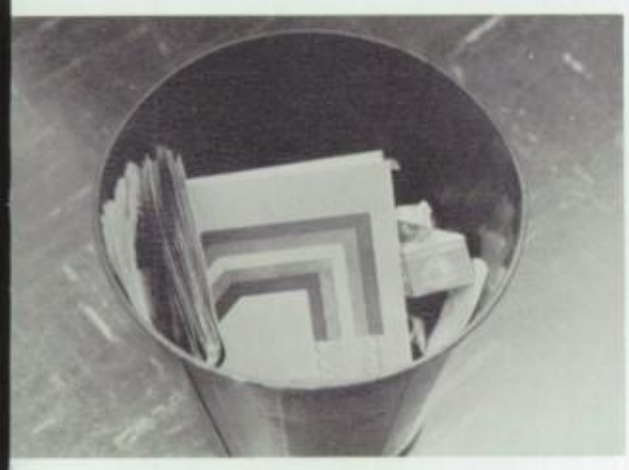


To The Poles





Question	Student	Teacher	Administration
1. The ideal student is:	of the opposite sex	doesn't sleep in class	isn't truant
2. The best class is:	commons	my own	office aid
3. The ideal teacher is:	absent	me	one who sends progress reports
4. Favorite place on campus	trees, triangle, benches	teacher's lounge	air conditioned offices



What do you think of the Crest?

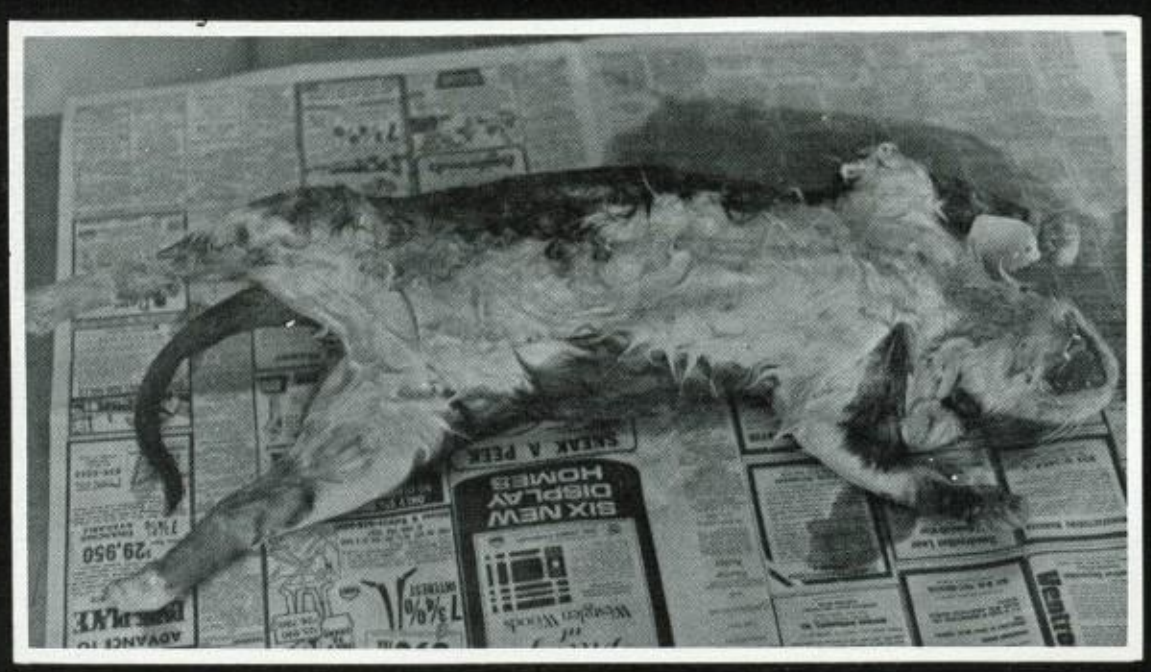
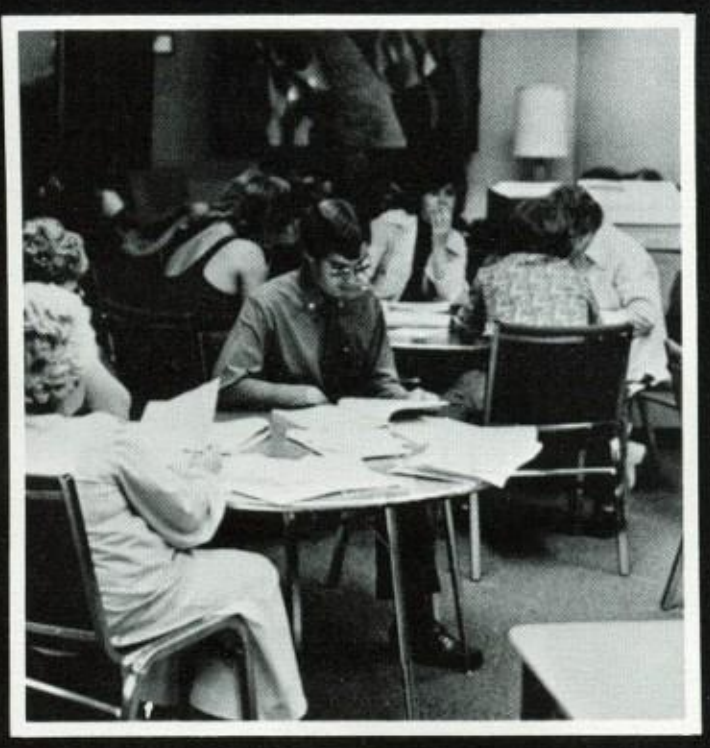
Believe It Or Not! Believe It Or Not!

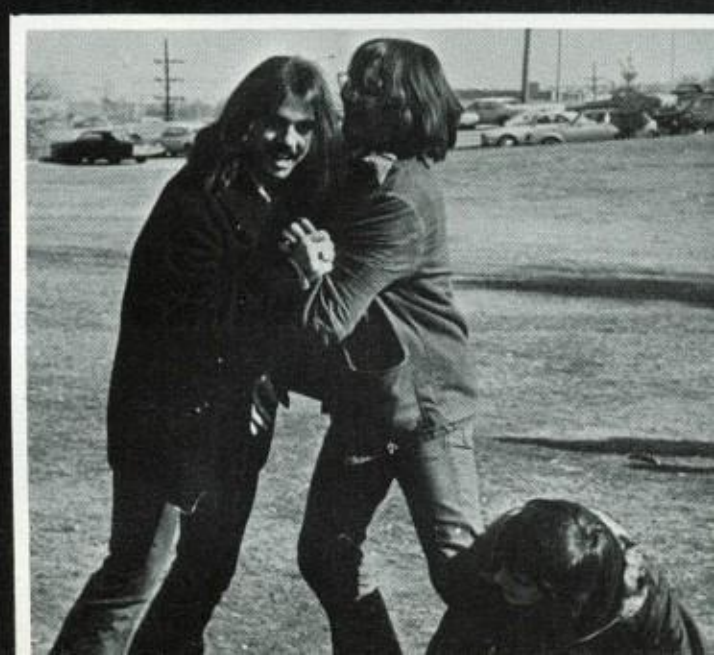
Believe it or not . . . but everyday strange and unusual things happen at McCluer. You don't always see them in action but you hear about them in your next class. For instance, did you know that only last month a girl was sued for malpractice operating on a cat? Did you hear about the bandit that stole everything out of the lockers in one night? And another example is you reading this section . . . what do you think this is, commons?



Believe it or not but this was once alive

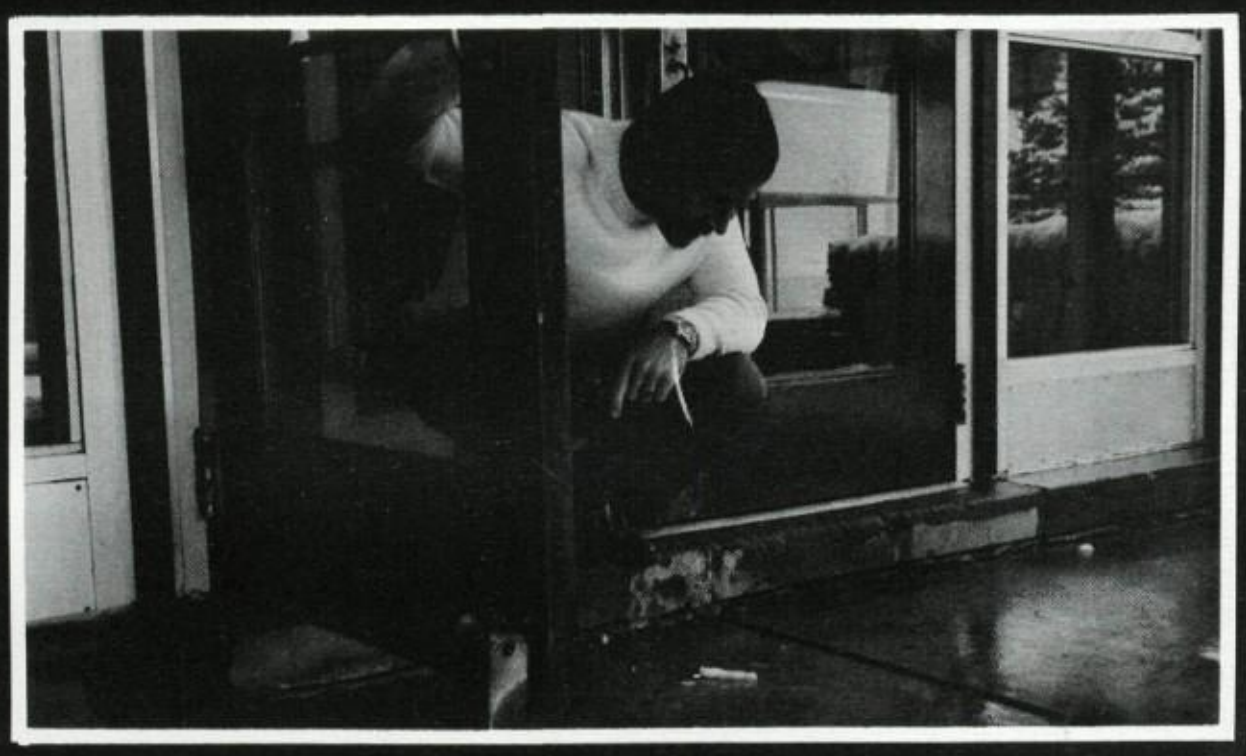


Believe it or not but Guidance isn't closed

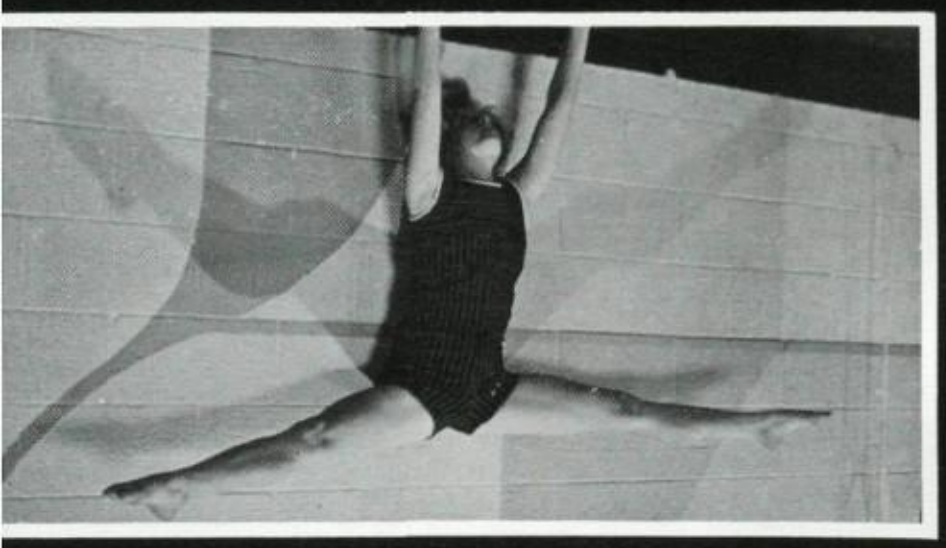


Believe It Or Not! Believe It Or Not!

Believe it or not but this boy can't find his bus



Believe it or not but he's advising an ant



Believe it or not but this girl is really stuck up

Believe it or not but they are best friends

Believe it or not but this teacher hasn't eaten in three days nce upon a time . . . there was a school called McCluer. Found inside the school were the usual things: freaks, jocks, teachers, desks, principals, books, and a few normal folk. A usual day started at 7:55 and ended at 2:35. An unusual day also started at 7:55 and ended at 2:35. Each morning the announcements came over the intercom LOUD and LOUD (it could be understood if you stood 10 miles away and spoke Yiddish). The food in the school wasn't the best in the world; in fact there was a rumor about a pipeline running from the chemistry labs to the cafeteria. Going to the john (usually after lunch) was almost impossible. If by chance you did make your way through the halls, because of the smoke you probably couldn't hit the pot if you tried. Speaking of the halls, it was said that a Swedish movie producer sent camera crews to do some filming at McCluer. After the school day was over the students enjoy an overcrowded, bumpy, bus ride home. Then they looked forward to an evening filled with cops, doctors, and bionic people and even managed to fit in a bit of homework during the commercials.

Hello Student,

We're here to say good-bye to "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About McCluer." We're overjoyed that it is over and probably so are you. We hope you've learned a little more about McCluer.

It's been fun but now our social life is non-existent because of what we missed — many wild parties, home basketball games, hot dates and sleep.

We'll remember all of the hard work we put into it when we're 40 years old and still not married.

Thanks again

As the school year draws to its final days, we tend to look back at the events of the year. Events that we thought would last a lifetime fade away into only memories — the memories that will often be recalled, but never again repeated.

In our minds those memories will be relived with the same enthusiasm as if they were real once again.

Every student at McCluer will remember some event or experience. Possibly they might remember when . . .

they were one of the few students to be chosen for the "rationed" amount of parking permits.

. . . they went back to their childhood as they sat and watched the production of "Hansel and Gretel".

. . . girls in athletics had the opportunity to compete in state competition and how this first year competition brought a rewarding experience of being so close, yet so far away.

. . . they goofed off in clases and paid the consequences later.

. . . Christmas Vespers revealed the true spirit of Christmas.

. . . Scoop was censored and through the combined efforts of many people, the staff was able to return to their own guidelines.

. . . they turned five different shades of red when they received a singing Valentine.

. . . They boogied from nine to twelve at the Half-way Dance.

. . . the blood bank drained a pint of their blood.

... they sneaked into the cafeteria without a commons card an how carefully they sneaked the food out without being caught.

. . . a lump formed in their throats when the Bicentennial flag was raised and when the Music Department performed the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" at the bicentennial concert?

All of these and many more are the memories that will be relived in our minds.

The end of the school year is so near and soon we will start anew in the circle of our lives, but with different people at different places, and at another time in our lives.

J.R.

get an early start in college

High school students who want to get an early start on their college careers should investigate dual enrollment at Florissant Valley Community College.

If you're a senior with at least 13 units of high school academic work and a 2.0 cummulative grade point average, you can expand your educational background by taking afternoon, evening and summer classes at Florissant Valley.

Up to 30 college credit hours can be earned while you're still in high school. This means that after graduation, when you enroll full-time at Florissant Valley, you can earn an AA or AAS degree in one year.

Talk with your high school counselor to see if you qualify for dual enrollment.
